

THE GEORGE INSTITUTE
for International Health

foundation director

- Rare international fundraising opportunity
- Excellent remuneration package - Sydney based

The George Institute for International Health is a leader in the global fight to improve the health of communities in Australia and Asia and those affected by the current surge in chronic disorders such as diabetes and cardiovascular disease. Chaired by Dr John Yu AC, the $40 million Institute has over 250 staff working on research projects in over 40 countries and 400 hospitals and universities worldwide.

This newly created role will establish an international fundraising program enlisting individual, foundation and corporate support from Australia and around the world, in the form of philanthropic gifts, grants, sponsorships, pro-bono support and bequests.

You have a track record in developing and nurturing meaningful relationships at the highest levels in order to raise significant funds in a philanthropic or corporate environment. Your mature approach, intellect and your ability to 'make the ask' will be key to your success in this role.

If this international fundraising opportunity appeals to you then please call Richard Green on 02 8243 0570 or email your resume to cv@ngorecruitment.com quoting job number 28271rg
