

fundraising manager

- Join the race to save orangutans
- Virtual office – work from home
- 20 hours/week

The Australian Orangutan Project (AOP) is an up-and-coming non profit organisation raising funds and awareness for Orangutan conservation groups fighting for the survival of Orangutans in the wild.

In this senior role within the AOP you will have overall responsibility for all National Fundraising activities. AOP currently receives funding via memberships, appeals, sponsorship and grants. Your role will be to increase income by developing relationships with existing donors and introducing new fundraising initiatives.

You will be a fundraising generalist who has been responsible for a diverse range of fundraising techniques including relationship building roles such as bequests, major gifts (high net wealth, trusts, foundations and corporates) and direct marketing with a focus on donor acquisition and loyalty via mail, phone, Internet and email.

A generous pro rata salary package is on offer to attract experienced and self-motivated candidates.

If you would like to utilise your fundraising skills to help save orangutans from extinction then please contact Olivia Ryan on 02 8243 0570 or forward your resume to ngo_34@ngorecruitment.com

