

analyst structured products

- Leading Investment Bank
- Rare Opportunity

One of the true icons of the financial services industry has an immediate need for an Analyst within the Structured Products team.

The focus of this role will be the listing of warrants and other structured products, liaising with issuers of innovative products and facilitating the trading of such products.

Some of the key accountabilities for this role will include identifying issues raised by new product proposals, reviewing structured product documents and presenting proposals to management, legal advisers and supervisory staff as well as updating web content with new product listings.

Applicants for this role must have the ability to deal with senior level executives from other investment banks and ideally have a broad ranging knowledge of the operation of financial markets including types of investment products and a working knowledge of the Business Rules, the Corporations Law and legal issues associated with financial products.

This is an excellent role for a highly professional and client focused individual within one of Australia's most highly respected financial services institutions.
