Cancer Research
Foundation

communications officer

- Help fund research into cancer
- PR and social media focus
- Join a progressive marketing team

The Australian Cancer Research Foundation (ACRF) is dedicated to helping find a cure for cancer through the continued support of world class research in Australia. The Foundation has awarded $55 million in grants to support leading research initiatives, ensuring Australia is at the forefront of global cancer research.

You will help deliver integrated communications activity to build awareness of ACRF and its work through public relations and social media, also contributing to online and print publications. The role will engage the public with campaigns and fundraising initiatives, driving creative external communication that delivers ACRF messaging, branding and values.

You're ideally a graduate with a few years experience at Account, Executive or PR Officer level with exposure to external and internal communications. You're from a PR environment in either a not-for profit, corporate or agency setting with well developed writing, professional presentation and web-based skills.

If working for one of Australia's leading cancer research Foundations is a career motivator then please call Annie Barker on 02 8243 0570 or send your resume to cv@ngorecruitment.com quoting 30504.
