

policy officer

RANZCO

- Influential professional body
- Promote safety and quality in eye health
- Strategic role – work closely with the CEO

The Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Ophthalmologists exists to improve the already high standard of eye care in Australia and New Zealand. The College provides a variety of services centred on its core roles as a higher educational institution and learned society.

Working closely with the CEO you will develop and review policy positions on issues in ophthalmology such as health reform and the Medical Benefits Scheme. You will also support the CEO on advocacy matters that affect the safety and quality of ophthalmic care for patients, particularly at the practice level.

You have tertiary qualifications or equivalent experience in policy and planning and significant demonstrated experience at a senior level in healthcare, Government or an associated organisation. Experience working with medical practitioners, in particular ophthalmologists, and enthusiasm for the role of ophthalmology in the broader health care arena would be highly regarded.

If you would like a challenging health based advocacy role please contact Olivia Ryan on 02 8243 0570 or forward your resume to cv@ngorecruitment.com quoting reference #30471.
