

captive bears – program manager

- Beijing based – INGO
- International leadership opportunity
- Develop and drive Asian campaigns

For 25 years, WSPA has aimed to promote the concept of animal welfare in regions of the world where there are few, if any, measures to protect animals. WSPA's Bear Campaign, active in China, Laos, Vietnam and South Korea works towards ending bear farming, bear baiting, the use of dancing bears and the production of pharmaceutical products containing bear bile. More than 12,000 bears are suffering desperately cruel conditions in Asia's bear farms right now.

Reporting to the China Country Director you will lead your colleagues throughout Asia and be the strategic link and focal point connecting regional, country and international teams. You will contribute to the development of global policies, guidelines and standards whilst monitoring the region for sensitive issues and positioning WSPA appropriately. As the spokesperson for the campaign internationally, you will develop and nurture relations with government authorities, intergovernmental organisations, corporations and the media.

You're currently involved in a campaign, advocacy or government relations environment and ideally have knowledge of international and regional animal welfare issues. You have a deep understanding of the Chinese culture and a track record of success in driving change in the world's most populous nation and neighbouring countries. Political and environmental issues are second nature to you.
